The Washburn football squad indulged in their final scrimmage before the Normal game Thursday night, a mixture of varsity and second team men forming the two teams. Most of the work was devoted to punting and running down the field and blocking by ends. At this work a noticeable improvement was shown.

After the scrimmage work, the team was assembled which probably will meet the Normals. Contrary to the week's indications, Ends Lowe and McIntyre likely will remain in their places. Chamberlain, Tucker, Bowman, Rankin, Bishop and others who tried to better the end positions have failed to show form and their working at the places has deprived the old ends of much needed practice in those positions.

Same as Against Kansas.

The back field positions are expected to be filled by Smiley, D. Rogers, Tomlinson and Capt. Burkhardt as against Kansas. Bishop, McIntyre and Titus will hold the tackle jobs and Johnson, N. Rogers and Painter the guards. Palmer and Barrett are still passing the ball.

Bishop is punting the ball again like he did last week in practice. His dismal failure in the Kansas game is hoped not to be repeated in another game, but his experience in punting under pressure is limited. He neglects to take enough distance back of the scrimmage line and takes too much time to kick. This enables the opposing line men to charge him after being momentarily held by his own line.

The practice was secret last night, but eight-sewing teachers continued to wander out to the park and walk onto the field. The gates were not locked and the manager was busy keeping the Normal backers off the grass.

The Normal team, which Washburn hopes to defeat before an audience of several thousand teachers Saturday, is as strong a team, perhaps, as the Normal has had in many years. The team had two hard games this season and shows class. It defeated the Aggies 3 to 0 by kicking a field goal and was beaten by Fairmount 9 to 5, a field goal and a goal from touchdown turning the decision.

The Teachers will be very much at home here because they will undoubtedly be better supported by rooters than will the Blue. The Normal dope sheet is far superior to that of Washburn, but Driver and his gang are confident of upsetting it.

While Nebraska enzes over this week with playing Doane college, Kansas, who is worrying over the Cornhusker game a week hence, must try to hold the powerful machine of Benny Owen from Oklahoma.

The Oklahoma Sooners, since beating Missouri decisively last Saturday, have remained in Columbia and have been working out with the Tigers in preparation for the Kansas game. It is doubtful if they will be able to play as good a game as at Missouri for the reason that a week away from the home camp serves usually to cause a lack of training by the players and a poorer condition.

The college dopsters at Lawrence are sending out dope this week to the effect that Coach Sherwin had only begun to teach his men team work. Heretofore, they were left to go as they chose, together if they desired or either direction. Now he will send his men against the Sooners with eleven men as one. Thus it is believed Kansas will win.

Kansas Will Be Better.

Undoubtedly Kansas will play a better game than a week ago when they were surprised by the Washburn team. As a matter of fact neither team was playing at its best that day and the game showed pretty weak football all around. At the same time Oklahoma is not expected to play the same quality of ball as a week ago and K. U. certainly has a good chance. The men, however, may be crippled for the Nebraska game a week later.

Missouri, Kansas' last rival for the season, will play Washington university at St. Louis.

The Kansas Aggies will entertain an out of the state aggregation in the Creighton team which comes to Manhattan. Creighton has not shown to be strong and since the Aggies have developed a better use of their beef, the game is expected to be a light one for the farmers.

A great inter-sectional game will be the clash of Michigan and Cornell at Ithaca. Most is afraid of the Cornell ends and has reason to be. While Michigan has not been defeated, Vanderbilt and Syracuse came so near it

CHANGE IN CONFERENCE.

Aggies and Oklahoma May Get Places Next Year.

Kansas City, Nov. 10.—The Missouri valley conference is beginning to show signs of disintegration and it is probable that there will be a reorganization of the association at the meeting held on Thanksgiving day and probably some changes in the personnel of the component colleges.

Dr. Clark W. Hetherington of Missouri was the leading spirit in the organization of the conference, but since his departure to larger fields of usefulness the conference has been without leaders, spiritual or otherwise. Consequently many little jealousies have crept in and one school, Iowa university, has crept entirely out of the league. Nebraska also wants to creep out, since she has been hammering at the doors of the Big Eight to gain admission to the august body for several years. Her splendid showing in football this year and the reported "cleanup" of her athletics will make it hard for the Big Eight to keep her on the outside very long.

Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska are the Big Three in the valley conference and will probably form the nucleus of whatever reorganization may be brought about this year.

K. S. A. C. May Get In. Three schools which will probably become members of the valley conference within the year have been deserving of the honor for several seasons. These schools are St. Louis university, Oklahoma university and the Kansas Agricultural college of Manhattan, Kansas.

All three of these schools, particularly Oklahoma, have adhered to decent eligibility rules for a year or two in the past and promise to be stricter in the future, whether admitted to the conference or not. All play a brand of football on a par with that played by Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri and their baseball teams are of the same class.

Would Be Stronger.

Missouri plays Oklahoma and St. Louis anyway and Kansas plays Oklahoma and the Aggies every year, so that the admission of the schools would not change schedules greatly. The conference itself would be greatly strengthened by admitting these applicants, just as it would be weakened by allowing three strong teams to remain outside.

St. Louis university is known to look favorably upon the acquisition of a berth in the conference and Oklahoma and the Kansas "Agiess" make no secret of their desire to be let in.

The present organization of the conference includes Missouri, Kansas, Washington, Ames, Nebraska and Drake. A much stronger conference organization and one which would do much for increasing the interest in college athletics would be as follows: Missouri, Washington, Kansas, Ames, Oklahoma, Kansas "Agiess" and St. Louis university, with Nebraska if she decides to remain here.

Silverware Cleaning Made Easy

THE

Silver-Clean Pan

This wonderful little home labor-saving device instantly cleans any silverware as bright and free from tarnish as when NEW. You merely place the tarnished silver in the PAN for a few moments in an ordinary solution of hot water and common baking soda and salt (found in every kitchen); of course, you could not do this with any other kind of pan. And there is positively not the least damage to the silverware—no marring, scratching and constant wearing off of the silver, as with so-called "cleaning pastes" and "polishes." The whole operation takes no more than ten minutes' time.

THE SILVER-CLEAN PAN is successfully used in thousands of homes (as well as hotels, restaurants, dining cars, etc.) and costs only $1.25 to $5.00, according to size. If not found entirely satisfactory after a trial, we will cheerfully pay return charges and refund purchase price.
